FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS A gaming mouse is a mouse that's specifically designed for computer (PC ) gaming. These high performance mice are built to give you added speed and precision, as well as additional mappable buttons that you can use to your advantage in game. There are different types of gaming mice that are more effective for different types of games, including FPS games, MMORPGs, MOBAs, and more. Gaming mice are usually paired with a gaming mouse pad for maximum performance, and these mouse pads often provide a larger surface area for more drastic mouse movements. Gaming mice are different from regular mice because they're specially designed to help you improve your performance through increased responsiveness and accuracy. Most gaming mice feature high-quality sensors that give you added speed and precision, which makes it easier to click the right spot in MOBAs and aim in FPS games. Logitech G has developed the HERO sensor which is a breakthrough in both precision and power-efficiency for superior aiming and wireless mouse battery life. Depending on the gaming mouse you choose, you can also find mice with additional buttons that make it easier to map all your actions in your favorite games. Plus, many gaming mice have RGB lighting that you can sync up to your gaming keyboard, headset and setup to create a cohesive look. LIGHTSYNC RGB is highly customizable and features many animations to choose from across ~16.8 million colors. Having the right gaming mouse won't immediately make you a pro, but it can help you step your game up and get an edge over your competition. Here are some of the benefits of Logitech G gaming mice: Speed: Gaming mice allow you to adjust your DPI to find the right speed for you, so you can make snappier movements. Precision: Improved sensors allow gaming mice to more accurately track your mouse movements, so you don't have to worry about skipping and other aiming issues. Durability: A Logitech G gaming mouse is a great choice if you're looking for a well-built mouse that will stand the test of time. There are a handful of different types of gaming mice, starting with connectivity options. Wired or wireless are both popular choices among gamers. A wired mouse gives you the freedom of unlimited battery life, but you're restricted by the cord. Wireless mice offer the same great performance without a cord, but while Logitech G mice are known for long battery life you have to keep them charged or change your batteries sometimes. There are also Logitech G gaming mice with different numbers of buttons and other unique features that are designed to enhance your performance in your favorite games. Some Logitech G gaming mice also feature Bluetooth® wireless for multiple device connectivity. If you're looking for the best gaming mouse, the sensor is one of the most important features. You want a sensor that offers various DPI settings and accurate tracking, and the HERO sensor from Logitech G achieves precision and long battery life when you're looking to buy a wireless mouse. You should also consider the number of buttons, the grip style, and the weight and size of the mouse. Everyone is different when it comes to choosing the right mouse size. The size of your hand and your preferred mouse grip play a big role in finding the best gaming mouse for you, so look for a mouse that fits your grip to start. If your hands are less than 17.5 cm (6.9 in) long, it's generally recommended to go with a small mouse. Medium gaming mice are normally suitable for hands that are 17,5-19,0 cm (6,9 - 7,5 in) long. If your hands are over 19,0 cm (> 7,5 in) long, you should go with a large gaming mouse. Choosing the right mouse is a crucial step when you're trying to find the perfect streaming gear. The good news is that there are numerous Logitech G gaming mice, whether you're looking for a smaller ambidextrous mouse like the G PRO Wireless or an ergonomic mouse like the G502 X. All of our gaming mice are equipped with high-quality sensors that provide accurate tracking and multiple DPI settings, and most Logitech G gaming mice have additional features like extra mappable buttons. There's nothing better than having the perfect gaming setup, and that goes beyond buying a Logitech G gaming mouse. If you want to complete your gaming setup, you also need a mouse pad and gaming keyboard. Also consider a gaming headset and webcam. If you're gaming with friends, a Logitech G gaming headset is a great way to communicate.
