Websites like Bongotones, Phonezoo and Tones7 offer all SMS ringtone packaging. Depending on your phone's SMS service, using this method could incur an additional cost to receive a multimedia message. Some similar services only send links to ringtones through text and still require an Internet connection to access the full file. That everything depends on where you get them and which ones you download. There are a lot of shady websites on the internet trying to attract you with free ringtones. A good test is to see if the site is full of ads or asks for money. Another common tactic is that websites will show you some ringtones, but when you click the link, the site tries to download something else. Always be careful about the file extension to see if you are downloading the file you requested. An executable file extension (exe, msi, dmg, apk) is a large red flag. Then there is the question of legality. Most websites have a mix of ringtones, some legal and some not. Obviously, if you are getting ringtones for the songs of the last decades, they are probably not legal, and we recommend you stay away from them. It would be safer to buy ringtones like that or, if you already own the song, to make your ringtone from it. So, with this off-road, here are our best websites to download ringtones. Zedge Zedge hosts a variety of ringtones created by the user. You can search for ringtones on the site, but the site does not offer any other real organization—there are no categories fromwhile you continue to scroll, more and more ringtones are loaded on the screen forto choose from. You can preview ringtones on the main page or the dedicated ringtone page where you can also download them. Zedge also offers apps for iOS and Android that surprisingly have better interfaces and allow you to browse categories. Notification Sounds Notification Sounds is not the typical ringtone site. It is a place where you can get similar ringtones to those who expect to be pre-loaded on the phone from the phone manufacturer: The ringtones on the site are organized by categories or tags, and there are a lot of both to explore. The comfortable preview option allows you to listen to the ringtones quickly, even on mobile devices. Once you find a ringtone you like, you can download an MP3 version (for Android devices) or an M4R version (for iPhone). If you have Android, you can download the ringtone directly on your phone. If you have an iPhone, you will need to use iTunes to transfer the ringtone to your device. One thing to keep in mind about the notification sounds is that most of the ringtones they host are intended to be used for notifications, not ringtones, so they are rather short. If you are looking for ringtones for calls, the selection is more limited. Melofania Melofania is an amazing site for ringtones with a ton of features. Not only can you browse the music of various artists and download their ringtones, but create YouTube video ringtones or even upload your music. You can find your favorite ringtones using the top search function, and then preview the ringtone on its page. You will find some different variations of the ringtones to choose from. Once you select a ringtone you like, click the Android or iPhone button and ringtone for the specific format you need. And once again, Android users can download directly to their phone, but iOS usersuse their computer and iTunes as an intermediary. Important note: As we said, downloading ringtones made by popular songs ison copyright. Therefore it is recommended to use Melofania only for the music you have legally and have the right to modify and use as a ringtone. MyTinyPhone MyTinyPhone has a huge collection of ringtones for a total of over half a million. The ringtones are well organized in several categories such as Jazz, Rock, Themes, Voice, Fun and more, making them easy to navigate. Each ringtone has a star rating and a view count, which makes it fast filtering popular ringtones. A little nuisance, however, is that you can not only click the great game button shown on the category pages to try the ringtone. Click on it takes you to the ringtone page, where you can then listen to it. It's some kind of drag. However, it is worth putting up for huge selection and solid categorization. You can download ringtones in MP3 or M4R format. Audiko Audiko is another popular website that allows you to download ringtones created by the user. It also allows you to create your own ringtones by uploading your favorite songs. On the homepage, you will see the most popular ringtones, SMS ringtones and the best artists of your country. Scroll a little and you will find links to popular genres that you can check out. When you open a specific page of the ringtone, you will see an option to listen to the tone and its variations. If you like the ringtone, you can click the download button to start the process. Unfortunately, you will need to create an account to download ringtones from Audiko, but the positive side is that all your downloaded ringtones are saved in your account and you can download iOS or Android versions for them at any time you like. Audiko has an Android App, which is free to use and does all the things you can do on the website. A paid iOS application is also available for $0.99, but we suggest you not to worry about this.
