ISRAEL and the PALESTINIANS: KEY DOCUMENTS

THE SECRETARY OF STATE
WASHINGTON

TO: The President

FROM: Cyrus R. Vance

SUBJECT: An Overview of the Camp David Talks

Our Objectives

Our main objective at Camp David is to break the present impasse at the highest political level so that ministerial-level negotiations can proceed toward detailed agreements. Our objective is not to achieve a detailed agreement.

In this context, our broad aim is to produce an understanding in some form that would:

- provide a basis for negotiations on the West Bank/Gaza that promise the Palestinians genuine movement toward self-determination that they could not achieve any other way;
- permit a serious effort to draw Jordan into West Bank/Gaza negotiations with at least Saudi, Gulf, and Moroccan support;
- allow the Sinai negotiations to go forward.

Lesson Title Camp David Accords

Grade Level 11

Estimated Time Required

Number of Days: 1
Number of Half-Hour Segments per Day: 3

Author Information

Name: Elizabeth Oney
School: North Pitt High School

Brief Description of the Lesson

Students will examine the Camp David Accords and determine what each side gained and lost and record their answers in a four column chart. At the end students will write an editorial in response to the following question “Which country, Egypt or Israel, do you think gained more from signing the Camp David Accords?”

Lesson Plan Objectives

- Content Objectives:
- Analyze the provisions of the Camp David Accords
 - Evaluate the gains and loses for all parties.

Skill Objectives:

- Interpret Primary Source documents
- Practice creating written presentations of social studies information

With the withdrawal, Israel also returned the Egyptian oil deposits from Abu-Rudeis in West Sinaï, which contained long-term productive wells. Both had invested enormous amounts of political capital and time to reach an agreement [15]. Partial Agreements The President of Egypt, Anwar Sadat, and the Prime Minister of Israel, Menachem Begin, recognize applause during a joint session of Congress in Washington, DC, during which President Jimmy Carter announced the results of Camp David agreements , September 18, 1978. Ten days after his speech, Sadat arrived for the innovative three-day visit, which launched the first peace process between Israel and an Arab state. ISBN 978-1-59 264-278-6 Armstrong, Karen. The Camp David agreements include two different agreements: «a framework for peace in the Middle East» and «a framework for the concertation of a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel», the second leading to the peace treaty between Egypt and Israel signed in March 1979. Or it could have been denied to continue the talks, having informed the reasons for their failure, and allowed Begin to carry most of the guilt. In part due to the determination of Carter to obtain an Israeli-Egyptian agreement, a complete promise of two weeks to a unique international problem. King Hussein of Jordan saw him as a slap on his face when Sadat offered Jordan's participation to decide how the autonomy would work for the Palestinians. An eventual failure of the negotiations by any of the leaders would have been disastrous, giving rise to assume the fault of the failure of the Summit, as well as the untrinkedness of the White House. The gesture arose from the desire to achieve the help of NATO countries to improve Egyptian economy, the conviction that Egypt should begin to focus more on its own interests than in those of the Arab world, and the hope of That an agreement with Israel catalyzed similar agreements between Israel and its other neighbor neighbors and will help solve the Palestinian problem. The solution of the negotiations should also recognize the legitimate right of the Palestinian people and their just needs.
