Florida unclaimed property

Can you earn some extra cash without having to count on luck too much? One out of ten Americans rightfully owns abandoned assets without knowing it. If you'd like to find out whether some of the unclaimed money in Florida belongs to you, search for and claim it in under five minutes with DoNotPay. What Is Considered Unclaimed Money in FL? When banks and other institutions can't find the owner of assets for a certain period (one to five years), the funds become unclaimed. Once this time passes, the government takes the money for safeguarding. In the Sunshine State, these assets go to the state school fund for public education until the rightful owner or heir shows up. Billions of dollars in the U.S. are considered unclaimed, and around one billion is located in Florida! Each year, around $300 million are given back to their rightful owners. The chances you are among them are high. You only need to check! Types of Unclaimed Money in the State of Florida Different types of property can be considered unclaimed in Florida. Take a look at the table below for a brief overview: Unclaimed Property in Florida Intangible Tangible Savings accounts Checking accounts Uncashed paychecks Stocks Uncashed dividend checks Bonds Unpaid insurance policies Securities Certificates of deposit State tax refunds IRS refunds Overpayments Royalties Mineral royalties Watches Jewelry Coins Currency Stamps Historical items The government holds tangible property found in safe deposit boxes for two years. When a bank or other financial account remains inactive long enough, the money gets turned over to the state.You might ask, who forgets about a bank account? But it happens enough that Florida is holding about $2 billion in unclaimed property, including money and items like watches, jewelry, coins, stamps and other collectibles from unused safe deposit boxes.The state doesn't keep the money in a big bank account. Instead, it spends it on schools but pays back the amount (or returns the property) if the rightful owner comes forward. The state also employs investigators to track down account holders.Last year, the state received about $536 million and returned about $323 million, though some of that was from money received in previous years.Florida CFO Jimmy Patronis. (DFS FLORIDA)"One of my top priorities ... is returning every cent of unclaimed funds and tangible property in the state to its rightful owners," said state Chief Financial Officer Jimmy Patronis.Patronis' office estimates the odds at 1 in 5 that some of it is yours. To find out, go to www.fltreasurehunt.gov and enter your information. You can even check to see if family members or friends have a windfall. If so, the website walks you through the next steps.Mike Bracken, president of the National Association of Unclaimed Property Administrators. (National Association of Unclaimed Property Administrators, recommended checking the website every year. Like most states, Florida updates its list regularly. The state has no time limit on how long a rightful owner has to collect unclaimed property."We constantly fight the misconception that people know where their money is," said Bracken, who also runs Massachusetts' unclaimed property program, which is holding $3.4 billion. "I say, 'Hey, if you knew where your money was, I wouldn't have $3.4 billion in unclaimed property.'"To check other states, try www.missingmoney.com.Top 20: The largest unclaimed property amounts in Florida1. $6.9 million (Miami)2. $2.9 million (Miami) 3. $2 million (Lauderhill) 4. $866,604 (Atlantis)5. $787,640 (Lauderdale-by-the-Sea) 6. $689,142 (Miami) 7. $650,435 (Crescent City) 8. $526,724 (Tampa) 9. $519,374 (Boynton Beach) 10. $420,358 (Hollywood) 11. $408,702 (Melbourne) 12. $395,263 (Sebring) 13. $393,800 (Tampa)14. $391,270 (Miami)15. $385,074 (Miami) 16. $379,496 (Miami Shores)17. $377,292 (Miami) 18. $362,787 (Hialeah) 19. $356,409 (Fort Lauderdale) 20. $356,101 (Miami) The location of the financial institution that turned the money over to the state. Source: Florida Chief Financial OfficerTips for keeping track of your accountsReview your bank and other financial accounts regularly. It may make sense to consolidate accounts if some of them aren't being used often.Set up an automatic deposit or transfer. Even a small amount added every year or two will keep most accounts active. In general, it takes three to five years for an account to become officially dormant.Make sure your bank and other financial institutions have your current address. When you move, make updating your address part of your checklist. "The bank is going to reach out to you before they turn the property over to the state," Bracken said. "But if they have the wrong address, the search can get difficult."Let trusted family members know where you have accounts. That way if something happens to you, they know which institutions to contact.
