I'm not a robot

```
Looking for dinner party games for adults to spice up your night and prevent that post-dinner fatigue? We got you! The best part? They won't cost you a dime. Dinner parties are the perfect way to get all your friends together and enjoy an evening full of brilliant conversations over delicious vegan appetizers, mouthwatering main dishes, and desserts like Swedish chocolate cake. But apart from the food, a great dinner party needs the right entertainment - and what better way to entertain a large group of people than by playing games together? They challenge people's creativity or stir up some spicy conversation or simply allow people to feel like a child or teenager again. We'll show you the best no-budget dinner party games for adults. 1. Who Am I? Besides using famous people, you could also decide on using fictional characters from childhood stars such as Mickey and Minney mouse. (Foto: CCO / Pixabay / Alexas Fotos) Who am I is a classic party game for every age group. All you need is some paper to stick to your foreheads. You may have some post-its at home, but otherwise, some old paper and tape will do. Once everyone has a piece of paper, they think of a character they'd like to assign to their seat neighbor, for example, a celebrity, politician, or artist. To give this game a little twist, you can also decide on different categories beforehand. Some examples include animals, people in your friend group, family members, or characters from your favorite series. Just let your creativity flow and have fun with it. After deciding on a category, everyone writes a character of choice on the piece of paper and attaches it to the forehead of their seat neighbor. Make sure this person doesn't secretly have a glimpse. Now it's time to go in rounds. The person with the first turn can now ask questions to guess their assigned character. These questions can only be answered with Yes or No. Some examples would be asking: Am I male or female? Do I play in the series XYZ? Am I a millionaire? To add a little incentive, you could think of a prize for the winner (the first one to guess their character correctly) or you could use this game as a base for your next costume party: Everyone dresses up as their character from Who Am I. 2. Never Have I Ever Instead of drinking cocktails, Never have I ever works just as well with some hot coco or tea of choice for your next winter-themed dinner party. (Foto: CCO / Pixabay / 5688709) Never Have I Ever might bring back some teenage memories, but who says this game can't be turned into a fun dinner party game for adults too? While it's originally a drinking game, it surely works with any beverage, including alcohol-free alternatives. Once each guest has their beverage of choice in front of them, it's time to start: Everyone holds up five fingers. Now you can take turns starting a sentence by saying "Never have I ever" and then following it up with something you've never done. For example, "Never have I ever gone skydiving." Anyone in the room who has done this already has to lower one of their five fingers and take a sip of their beverage. The person that all fingers down first
"loses", but essentially the game isn't about winning or losing but more so about learning more about each other, bonding, and unpacking fun stories. 3. Classic Dinner Party Game to loosen up the atmosphere and create trust and comfort among the group! (Foto: CCO / Pixabay / mahbubhasan2550) Charades is another timeless dinner party game that can be played in many different variations and is ideal for a larger group. Plus, you can be almost sure that everyone in the room is familiar with this. Split the group into two teams and ask every team to write down clues they want the other team to act out and guess. The clues are placed in a bowl or hat for each team. Now it's time to start and take turns guessing and acting out. Decide on a time together and set a timer for a certain amount of minutes. That's how much time each team has to act out and guess as many items as possible. The team who guessed the most items correctly in the end wins! 4. Pictionary Use a whiteboard or tablet when playing Pictionary so you don't waste paper. (Foto: CCO Public Domain / Unsplash / Mark Rabe ) Some of your party guests may not be into acting, but into drawing instead. The game works exactly the same as charades, but this time you let players draw the term and guess it from that. No further tips or explanations using words are allowed! 5. Host a Murder Mystery Party If you know your guests are into thrillers and mystery, they will appreciate this different kind of dinner party games for adults. (Foto: CC0 / Pixabay / GioeleFazzeri) Murder mystery parties have become popular dinner party games for adults in the past few years. It's essentially a party event where guests work together to solve a fake murder. This one requires a little more planning, but can be done without any costs too! Here's how to go about it: Pick a theme: Think about how many guests are going to attend and what their interests are. There are many templates online to get inspired. Create a storyline: Whether you want to get creative and write a compelling and mystical story yourself or look up an existent story is up to you. Based on this, you create descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects: Time to assign character involved. Invite your suspects and send the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared descriptions of each character involved. Invite your suspects are the prepared description of the prepared descripti sure it allows for clothes that everyone has at home. Have a look at these DIY Halloween costume ideas for some inspiration. Time to play: Make sure to stay in character throughout the night and solve the crime together. Ideally, you as the host take on the role of a narrator. 6. Two Truths and a Lie Especially with newer adult friendships, you may not know everything about the other person yet — Two truths and a lie will make you find out about that bungee jumping trip your friend took in Nicaragua or that time your other friend got kicked out of a movie theatre. (Foto: CCO / Pixabay / holdosi) Another simple dinner party game for adults is Two Truths and a Lie. It can be played very quickly as a quick ice-breaker, but of course, you can also continue playing this dinner party game for adults for as long as you'd like. It's quite simple, so you could even do it over your dinner plates. The first person to start tells two truths and one lie about themselves. Next person guesses which one is the lie. You'll continue until everyone had a turn. This game is great to get to know each other better and find things out you may not have known about your friends. 7. Would You Rather In this dinner party game for adults, your guests will need to choose one of the two options. (Foto: CC0 Public Domain / Unsplash / Jon Tyson) This dinner party game for adults is also a great way of getting to know each other better! And also a good way to see whether you have a good feel for how your friends would go about certain situations. The concept is pretty easy. You'll go around the dinner table in rounds again. The first player starts by asking a question starting with "Would you rather..." and finishing it by presenting two options, such as: Would you rather become a millionaire by starting your own business or by winning the lottery? Would you rather be a celebrity for a day or a child again? Your ideas have no boundaries here. You can have everyone answer the same question or assign specific people until everyone had a turn. 8. Truth Or Dare Spin the bottle meets truth or dare makes for an entertaining evening. (Foto: CCO Public Domain / Unsplash / Jadon Barnes) This dinner party game for adults may bring back old high school memories, making it perfect for a group of close friends. All you need is a bottle to spin while everyone else sits around in a circle. The person who the bottle points towards has to perform a task or answer a question, chosen by the other participants. This is your time to get a little silly, dance in front of the neighbor's yard, perform a 90s hit in front of your friends or finally find out about that work crush you suspected one of your friends has. As with all the games, make sure to respect the boundaries of your friends and don't push people too much. 9.
Name That Tune This game is great for exposing secret talents among the group and finding out more about each others interests in music genres, favorite songs and artists. (Foto: CC0 / Pixabay / PourquoiPas) Want to boost the group's mood with some good tunes but aren't done playing games just yet? This game combines the two. You can either have players hum or sing a few notes of a song and have the other ones guess, or you could just play the first few notes of a song from any streaming platform. Whoever guesses the most songs wins! 10. Categories Test your geography knowledge as a group. (Foto: CC0 / Pixabay / Pamjpat) Categories is a quick and easy but fun game where everyone takes turns to think of a specific category, for example: Car brands, types of candy, things you can find at the thrift store. The next person then has to name something in that category and the round keeps going until no more words come up. 11. DIY Twister A great game to remind everyone of sweet childhood days while testing their flexibility — it may easily result in multiple laughing fits. (Foto: CC0 / Pixabay / imslavinsky) While most of these dinner party games for adults have you move a bit! Making a DIY Twister board is one of them. Simply look for an old piece of fabric, such as an old bedsheet, and draw a large Twister board on it using markers or any type of leftover color you may still have sitting around. Now put a bottle in the middle of the field and spin it. Wherever it lands, players have to put their hand or foot on the color and so on. 12. Freeze Dance Dancing is a must for every party, so why not include it in a game and boost everyone's mood by a quick dancing session? (Foto: CCO / Pixabay / Broesis) Another dinner party game to get adult guests moving is Freeze Dance. Play some hits and have everyone freeze. Repeat the same procedure every few seconds. Whoever moves, is removed from the game and the last person standing wins. Read More:  Links to retailers marked with  or underlined orange are partially partner links: If you buy here, you actively support Utopia.org, because we will receive a small part of the sales proceeds. More info. Do you like this post? Thank you very much for voting! Tags: Dinner Guide Indoors Practical Tips Hi, I'm Emma! There's nothing better than gathering friends for a great meal, but if you really want to make your night unforgettable, Dinner Party Games help break the ice, keep the energy up, and make sure everyone stays engaged—whether you're hosting close friends or mixing different social circles. Dinner Party Games For Adults Dinner Party Games for Adults Dinner Party Games for Adults add excitement, laughter, and engagement to any gathering. They help break the ice, spark conversation, and make your evening unforgettable! Murder Mystery This immersive game turns your dinner party into a thrilling whodunit. Each guest gets a character role with secrets to uncover. As the night progresses, players ask questions and piece together clues to solve the mystery. The person who correctly identifies the culprit wins! Choose a murder mystery theme (1920s, Hollywood, etc.) for extra fun. Assign roles in advance so guests can dress up accordingly. Use props or set up a crime scene for a realistic touch. Encourage dramatic role-playing to make it more engaging. Keep the game moving with a time limit for each round. Who Am I? Each guest wears a sticky note on their forehead with a famous person's name. They must ask yes-or-no questions to figure out who they are. The goal is to guess your identity before everyone else does! View this post on Instagram A post shared by Tara (@missykalamoments) Use well-known celebrities or fictional characters to keep it fun. Limit each person to 10-15 questions to keep the game moving. Give a small prize to the fastest guesser. Add a theme, like movie stars or historical figures, for extra creativity. If someone struggles, offer hints to prevent frustration. Never Have I Ever Guests take turns saying, "Never have I ever..." followed by something they've never done. Anyone who has done it takes a sip of their drink. This game is great for getting to know each other in a fun way! Set ground rules to keep things friendly and comfortable. Use a mix of fun and unexpected statements for variety. Play with non-alcoholic drinks for a lighthearted version. Keep it moving quickly so no one gets bored. Encourage honesty, but remind guests it's all in good fun! Two Truths and a Lie Each guest shares two true statements and one lie about themselves. The group tries to guess which one is the lie. The person who fools the most people wins! Encourage creative or surprising truths to make it tricky. Mix personal and random facts for more engagement. Have everyone write their statements down in advance to avoid hesitation. Offer a small prize for the best lie. Keep the pace quick by limiting time for guesses. No speaking—only gestures! The team with the most correct guesses wins. Use a timer to keep the rounds short and exciting. Choose themed categories like movies, TV shows, or famous people. Make it more dramatic by adding music or props. Have a "no repeat" rule to keep things fresh. Mix easy and difficult clues for all skill levels. Pictionary Players draw a word or phrase while their team tries to guess within a time limit. No letters or numbers allowed! The team with the most correct answers wins. Use a large whiteboard or big paper for easy visibility. Set up different difficulty levels for added challenge. Allow teammates to pass if a clue is too hard. Encourage funny drawings for extra laughs. Use an app or pre-made cards to keep it fair. Cards Against Humanity A hilarious card game where players complete fill-in-the-blank sentences with the funniest answer, chosen by the round's judge, wins! Choose a deck that fits your guests' humor levels. Set a time limit for picking answers to keep the game categories based on your group's interests. Set a timer for a competitive edge. Use exaggerated gestures for extra fun. Keep track of high scores to name a winner. Play in teams to increase interaction. Sip If... A fun drinking game where players take a sip if a statement applies to them. The statements range from simple ("Sip if you have a pet") to outrageous ("Sip if you've ever crashed a wedding"). Mix funny, embarrassing, and lighthearted prompts. Make it inclusive by allowing non-drinkers to take a bite of food instead. Keep rounds short so no one overdoes it. Create custom prompts for your friend group. Don't pressure anyone to participate in uncomfortable statements. Would You create their own scenarios. Have a "skip" option to avoid awkward situations. Beer Pong A competitive game where players try to throw a ping pong ball into cups of beer. If they land a shot, the opposing team drinks that cup. The first team to eliminate all cups wins! Use water in cups for hygiene, drinking from separate glasses. Play with different cup formations for variety. Add trick-shot rounds for extra challenge. Keep a scorecard for multiple games. Have fun music playing to hype up the game where each card has a rule (e.g., "Ace = Waterfall" means everyone drinks in a chain reaction). The game continues until all cards are drawn. Have a rule list
 "freeze dance" rule where players must stop when the music does. Add challenges like dance battles. Offer a prize for the winner. Let the audience cheer as a voting method. Minute to Win It Challenges Quick, hilarious games where players complete silly tasks in 60 seconds—like stacking cups or balancing a cookie on their face. Have a mix of physical and mental challenges. Use household items to keep it simple. Set up a score system to determine the champion. Encourage teamwork for added fun. Play upbeat music to build excitement. Scavenger Hunt Create a list of items guests must find around the house. The first to collect everything wins! Hide a mix of easy and tricky items. Use riddles as clues for extra challenge. Offer a fun prize for the winner. Set a time limit to keep things moving. Allow teams for a competitive edge. Lip Sync Battle Guests vote for the winner. Have a "crowd favorite" award. Play famous duets for partner performances. Record the performances for hilarious memories! Truth or Dare A classic game where players take turns choosing between answering a personal question or completing a fun challenge. It's a great way to spice up the night and encourage bold moves! Keep dares lighthearted and fun (nothing too extreme). Set ground rules to ensure everyone feels comfortable. Use a mix of personal and general questions for variety. Let players skip one challenge one player whispers a phrase. The Whisper Challenge one player whispers a phrase. The goal is to read their lips and guess the phrase correctly! Use funny or absurd phrases to make it more entertaining. Let teams compete to see who guesses the most correctly. Emoji Storytelling Players pick random emoji cards (or use a phone's emoji keyboard) and must create a short, funny story using only those emojis. The most creative or hilarious story wins! Set a time limit to keep the game moving. Allow group storytelling for extra laughs. Add categories like "romance" or "horror" for variety. Let guests act out their emoji stories for a twist. Have a prize for the most creative storyteller. Pass the Present Wrap a small gift in multiple layers of wrapping paper. Players sit in a circle and pass it around while music plays. When the gift! Use a mix of funny and useful gifts. Add challenges under each layer (e.g., "sing a song" or "tell a joke"). Play different types of music each round for variety. Set a rule that the same person can't hold it twice in a row. Have a small prize for the most enthusiastic player. Forbidden Words Pick a few common words (like "drink," "party," or "name") that guests are not allowed to say during the evening. If someone says a forbidden word, they get a funny consequence! Use stickers or wristbands—whoever loses the most gets a fun penalty. Choose words related to the theme of the party. Have different levels of difficulty (easy words vs. hard words). Let guests call each other out for extra fun. Offer a small prize to whoever avoids saying the words the longest. These extra games will keep your Dinner Party Games for Adults even more exciting! Themed Dinner Party Games takes the excitement to the next level! Themed games create a more immersive experience, encourage guests to engage with the party vibe, and make the night truly unforgettable. Whether you want a high-stakes casino atmosphere, a thrilling escape room challenge, or a night of Hollywood-style competition, these themed game ideas will make your dinner party one to remember. Casino Night Turn your dinner party into a mini Vegas experience with classic casino games like poker, blackjack, and roulette. Use chips, fake money, or fun prizes to keep the stakes high! Set up different tables for various games to keep things dynamic. Provide a "bank" where guests to dress in fancy casino attire for extra fun. Play background jazz or lounge music to enhance the atmosphere.
Escape Room at Home Create a thrilling mystery for your guests to solve! Set up clues, puzzles, and locks around your home, challenging players to work together to "escape" within a set time. Choose a fun theme, like a haunted mansion or spy mission. Hide clues around different areas to keep guests moving. Use props like locks, secret messages and coded puzzles. Assign roles (e.g., detective, puzzle master) to get everyone involved. Offer a small reward for those who solve the escape room first. Trivia Night Test your guests' knowledge with a trivia about the guests. Use a buzzer system on let teams write down answers. Offer a mix of easy, medium, and difficult questions. Have a fun host (or take turns) to keep the energy up. Use themed decorations that match the trivia topic. Award small prizes to the winning team or individual. Hollywood Game Night Inspired by the TV show, this game features a mix of party games, including charades, Pictionary, and word association. Perfect for a lively, interactive night! Divide guests into teams for friendly competition. Use celebrity-themed challenges (e.g., "Guess the Movie" or "Name That Tune"). Have a red carpet or glam dress code for extra fun. Play Hollywood soundtracks in the background. Reward winners with a mini "Oscar" or Hollywood-style prizes. Themed dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games at a dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games at a dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any dinner party? Games add fun, energy, and a touch of excitement to any di Games create a relaxed and engaging atmosphere. They help guests bond, especially if they don't know each other well. A mix of games ensures entertainment for all personality types. They make the party more memorable and unique. What are some easy-to-set-up dinner party games? Not all games require elaborate preparation—some can be played with minimal setup while still being fun and engaging. Would You Rather - Ask guests fun or tricky questions to spark conversations. Charades - A classic acting game that requires no materials. Never Have I Ever - A great storytelling game that requires no materials. Never Have I Ever - A great storytelling game that requires no materials. guests. How do I choose the right Dinner Party Games for Adults? The best Dinner Party competitive and collaborative games. Keep a few extra games as backup in case guests want more fun. How do I keep my guests engaged in the games? The key to a successful game night is making sure everyone feels included and excited to participate. Explain the rules clearly before starting. Keep the energy up with music and an enthusiastic host Offer small prizes to add friendly competition. Allow guests to opt out if they prefer to watch instead. Encourage teamwork and laughter to make it fun for everyone. I'm Emma Rosenthal, an event planner based in New York City with a passion for bringing people together through unforgettable celebrations. I created partyonmind.com to share my best party ideas, wedding inspirations, and fun games for kids, adults, and everyone in between. Whether you're planning a small gathering or a grand event, I love helping you make every occasion special with creative and engaging activities. Let's make every party one to remember! Inside: Dinner Party Games for Adults. An adult dinner party is one of the best things about being an adult. I mean the wine, the yummy dishes, the awesome convos, and of course the great memories! I love hosting a fun dinner party and one of my favorite things to do is play some awesome games. There are so many different games to play from ice breakers to drinking games, to games that might be a little more risk-ay. Check out this awesome list of dinner party games for adults that pack a playful punch! Dinner Party Games for Adults Press Conference: Someone holds a "press conference" and answers questions from the other guests. Catch is that the person holding the conference doesn't know who they are pretending to be but the rest of the guests do. Quick Wits: If your friends are rowdy crew, they'll love QuickWits, which encourages people to shout over each other as they try to be the first to answer quests trying to pick up a paper bag with only their mouths. When a guest fails, they'll need to take a drink meaning the game will get funnier as the night goes on. Spoons: Spoons is a card game that's great for any age or group of people. It's fun and fast but still a card game that everyone can play. Pictionary: You don't need to buy the game Pictionary to play it at your next party. You can easily make up your own cards and set up a big drawing area for your guests. Great Ice Breaker Dinner Party Games Not So Newlywed Game: The Not So Newlywed Game is the perfect way to entertain your friends, and family, favorites, best and worst, finances, preferences, making love, fun facts, love and marriage, and the future. Convo Cards: If you're looking for a low-key icebreaker for your party, these conversation cards from Living Locurto are a great idea. They can especially be fun for a dinner party. Hot Seat: Want to get to know your friends better? Then you will love this game, which will help you find out who your friends really are. You may even discover a few things you didn't want to know! Who Am I?: This is a guessing game where you act or draw the famous person on the slip of paper that you drew. Can your teammates guess who you're pretending to be? There are many other variations of this game, one of my favorites is to use sticky notes and place the name on the guests' backs. It makes for a fun and easy icebreaker, and Act: React and Act: React and Act: React and Act: React and Act is an icebreaker game that will have your guests acting to different situations such as winning the lottery or getting fired. Don't Say Yes: You've probably heard of those taboo word games before, but this one will be quite the challenge. Guests aren't allowed to use the word, yes, or any variation of it. You can have them wear a sticker or a yarn necklace if they say the word during the party. It will be fun to see who's the most "decorated" at the end of the night. Sticker Game: Even grown-ups like stickers and in the Sticker Stalker Game challenges your guests to place as many of their stickers on the other guests as possible. Murder Mystery Games: Murder Mystery game is all you need to have a whole evening of fun with your friends. There are many free mysteries to choose from, and each contains charter descriptions, clues, scripts, and more. More Games You'll Love Amazon Board Games - Ditch the TV and let the games begin! We love a good game night, whether its a game night full of laughs and fun. Bachelorette Party Games - Planning a bachelorette party can be super stressful because there are so many things to think about. But girl, I've got you covered with the games and activities. Here you'll find twenty-five printable bachelorette party games to Play at the Park - I don't know about you but spring and summer are my FAVORITE times of the year. They are filled with backyard barbeques, long days by the pool and spending the day playing with the kiddos! One of our favorite fun games! Here is a list of our favorite fun games to play at the park! Food and fun go together, especially when food games are the source of the fun. We have eating games, food challenge games, and fun food games for kids and adults. You may wish to ask for volunteers for some of these games and allow the rest of the group to be spectators, yelling directions and encouraging players. Many of our games take very little preparation, require inexpensive materials, and are fun enough to be played more than once. Food Challenge Games Marshmallow and Pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallows and spaghetti, and it is even more so when you race to do so. Divide your group into teams of from four to six players. Give each team a pack of spaghetti and a pack of large marshmallows. The goal for each team is to build the tallest free-standing tower in a set amount of time - five to ten minutes usually works well. Remind them when only one minute is left that the time is nearly up and the tower must be free-standing. Use a measuring tape to verify which tower is the tallest. Should two teams tie, break the tie by requiring the tied teams move their free-standing.
standing tower across the room. The team with the longest lasting tower (it cannot be repaired if it loses parts while being moved), or the one that manages to move their tower all the way across the room, wins this game. Baby Food Guess Test Purchase several different kinds of baby food. You will need many plastic spoons for this game, enough for each player to use a different one for each tasting. List the name - peaches, peas, pudding, etc. - on a piece of paper and number the list. Put corresponding numbers on small bowls for identification as you empty the baby food into them. Have players take turns tasting the food, guess what the food is, and write their guesses on a slip of paper. To make the challenge more difficult for older players, use blindfolds or add food coloring to each bowl. Give one point for each correct guess. The winner is the player with the most points. Banana Split Relay Race You will need all the ingredients for banana splits: Bananas Ice Cream - chocolate, vanilla, and strawberry Fudge Sauce Strawberry Sauce Caramel Sauce Nuts or Sprinkles Whipped Cream Put all the ingredients into large bowls on a table. Divide your group into team member to team with each player adding another ingredient. The team that completes their banana split first wins the game. Finishing the banana split becomes a challenge as everyone is trying to use the bowls of ingredients at the same time. Players have the fun of eating their creation when they finish. Eating Games Eating games are fun to participate in and watch. Plan ahead for the best time to introduce eating games, since they do create a mess. Have plenty of paper towels and water for cleaning up. Whipped Cream Faces Although messy, this fun game provides lots of laughs! You will need an aluminum pie plate for each player. Put five to seven M&Ms on each plate. Players kneel before their plates and water for cleaning up. and on the count of three attempt to eat all their M&Ms first. The players must eat the spaghetti Challenge Ask for volunteers for this game to make sure players must eat the spaghetti without silverware and with their hands behind their backs. The first person to eat all their spaghetti is the winner. Donuts on a String Simple and fun, the only equipment required is string and donuts. Hang the donuts from the ceiling and have the players eat the donut without using their hands. They must keep their arms behind their backs. The donuts swinging side to side make this task extremely difficult. The first to eat the entire donut wins this fun and challenging game. Food Games for Kids If you are looking for ideas for a kids' party, why not play some fun food games. Kids love to eat and get messy, and some of our games provide both. Others simply require skill and coordination. Whichever game you choose, it will make your party, camp experience, or get-together memorable. Mystery Taste Test You will need a variety of different foods to player takes a turn. Allow each player to take three (or more) turns of different foods to play this game. Players take turns wearing a blindfold and tasting a food to guess what it is.
and give one point for each correct guess. The player with the most points wins. You may need to have a play-off if players tie. Try some of the following foods for this game: peanut butter instant coffee cheese milk sugar salt and pepper garlic or onion powder olive oil vinegar raisins bread or cracker crumbs herbs and spices flour cornstarch applesauce pudding jam or jelly diced fruit or vegetables Variation: Allow the players to touch and smell the food to before making a guess. Note: Make sure you know about any food allergies the kids may have before playing. Pasta Relay Race Divide your players into two or more teams of six or more players. Have the teams line up behind two largest and the food to before making a guess.
empty pots at one side of the room. On the other side of the room, have two large pots filled with dried pasta, and running back to the pot filled with pasta, filing the ladle, racing back to the empty pot, dumping the pasta, and running back to their team. The first team able to transfer all their pasta wins the race. Variations: To make the game more difficult for older children, use cooked pasta, slippery and more difficult to keep in the ladle. Provide each team member a large spoon or ladle and have them transfer the pasta from player to fill the empty pot from the full one in relay race style. Chopstick Challenges Pass the Food Provide each player a pair of chopsticks, a small bowl filled with small food pieces, such as raisins, cereal, mini marshmallows, or M&Ms, and an empty bowl. Set a timer for two to five minutes, depending upon the size of your group and their ages. The kids attempt to transfer the food from the filled bowl to the empty bowl. The kid who has the most of your group and their ages.
pieces in their bowl when the timer goes off is the winner. Chopstick Eating Challenge. Choose a food that is difficult to eat with chopsticks, such as cooked spaghetti, pudding, or slippery fruit, such as peach slices. The goal is to see who can eat their small bowl of food the quickest. Chopstick Pass. Each kid receives a pair of chopsticks after joining a circle either sitting on the floor or standing. One kid is give a small item, such as a nut or small, gummy candy. One child begins the game, passing the object to the next child with their chopsticks already. Try having all the players use their non-dominant hand (right handers use left hand, and left handers use right hand) to make the competition even. Food-themed "Musical" Chairs Have the players form a circle with one chair removed. Choose four or more kinds of food (fruits or vegetables) and go around the circle with each player having the name of a food, for example beets, potatoes, corn, and squash. When the person in the center calls out the name of a food, all the players designated with that name must change seats. Each time a chair is removed and the last person remaining wins this game. Recipe Mix Up Divide the kids into teams and give each team the same recipe with all the ingredients and directions on separate slips of paper. The goal is to arrange all the ingredients and directions in the correct order. You can provide a blank sheet of paper and either tape or glue to make the process easier. For older kids or to make the game more difficult, cut the words apart and ask the teams to arrange them in the correct order. If you wish, you can provide the ingredients and let the teams make the recipe. Cookies or cupcakes work well at a kid's party. Food Games for Adults and Couples and adults. Divide your group into teams of six or more players. Each team lines up and each team member receives a toothpick. The first person in the line places the cereal circle on their mouth. They pass the cereal falls, the team must start over with the first person. The first person, who also has a toothpick which they are holding in their mouth. If the cereal falls, the team must start over with the first person. The first person, who also has a toothpick in their mouth. If the cereal falls, the team must start over with the first person.
the entire line wins this game. Licorice Challenge Pair up your players or have couples form two-person teams. Give each team a very long strand of licorice until they meet in the middle. The couple who reaches the middle first wins this fun game. Variation: No licorice? Use slightly (still firm) cooked spaghetti noodles. Whistling and Burping This game for couples or paired adults guarantees laughs! Couples receive a can of soda and five soda. The person in each pair who will be eating the crackers goes first, and the soda drinker goes second. On the "Go!" signal, the cracker eater consumes the cracker eater consumes the cracker and then must whistle "Yankee Doodle Dandy" or another pre-selected song. Then the soda drinker must chug the soda and burp loud enough to be heard. The first two-person team to complete this challenge first, wins. Variation: Have three or four couples play this food game in front of the rest of the group. Filled Doughnuts in front of one of the players. Blindfold both players. The goal is to feed one's partner the filled doughnuts in front of one of the players. The goal is to feed one's partner the filled doughnuts in front of one of the players.
the shortest amount of time. If you wish, you can set a timer for three minutes, and the team with the most eaten wins. Variation: Blindfold the person feeding the donut to their partner and then have them stand behind their seated partner and feed them the filled donut. Wheelbarrow Race Pairs of players, one the "wheelbarrow" and one who pushes it, race to the finish line in this unusual fun race. One player balances on their hands while the other player holds their legs. The goal is to finish the game first. Food enters this game as on the way to the finish line, there are piles of food one must eat. Prior to playing, small foods - candies, nuts, chopped fruit, etc. - are placed on clean papers along the course. Provide a cup for the "wheelbarrow" player to hold in their mouth as they run on their hands. They must put at least one food item from each pile in their cup wins this race. Quick Food Game Ideas Food Piñata. Make or purchase of a food themed piñata and fill it with goodies - candies and small toys - for your party or get-together. Scavenger Hunts Hide cooking ingredients and utensils necessary to complete a recipe and have players find them in the order in which the recipe lists them. Hide cookie cutters for players to find and then let them cut sugar cookies and decorate them participating. Have fun! Susan majored in English with a double minor in Humanities and Business at Arizona State University and earned a Master's degree in Educational Administration from Liberty University and earned a Master's degree in Educational Administration from Liberty University. She taught grades four through twelve in both public and private schools. Subjects included English, U.S. and world history and geography, math, earth and physical science, Bible, information technologies, and creative writing. Susan has been freelance writing for over ten years, during which time she has written and edited books, newspaper articles, biographies, book reviews, guidelines, neighborhood descriptions for realtors, Power Point presentations, resumes, and numerous other projects. Read full bio Food and fun go together, especially when food games are the source of the fun. We have eating games, food challenge games and allow the rest of the group to be spectators, yelling directions and encouraging players. Many of our games take very little preparation, require inexpensive materials, and are fun enough to be played more than once. Food Challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and Pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmallow and the pasta Towers It is challenging to build a tower form marshmall tower form tower form marshmallow and the pasta Towers It is ch to six players. Give each team a pack of spagnetti and a pack of large marshmallows. The goal for each team is to build the tallest free-standing tower in a set amount of time - five to ten minutes usually works well. Remind them when only one minute is left that the time is nearly up and the tower must be free-standing. Use a measuring tape to verify which tower is the tallest. Should two teams tie, break the tie by requiring the tied teams move their free-standing tower (it cannot be repaired if it loses parts while being moved), or the one that manages to move their free-standing tower (it cannot be repaired if it loses parts while being moved), or the one that manages to move their free-standing tower (it cannot be repaired if it loses parts while being moved), or the one that manages to move their free-standing tower (it cannot be repaired if it loses parts while being moved).
Purchase several different kinds of baby food. You will need many plastic spoons for this game, enough for each player to use a different one for each tasting. List the name - peaches, peas, pudding, etc. - on a piece of paper and number the list. Put corresponding numbers on small bowls for identification as you empty the baby food into them. Have players take turns tasting the food, guess what the food is, and write their guesses on a slip of paper. To make the challenge more difficult for older players, use blindfolds or add food coloring to each bowl. Give one point for each correct guess. The winner is the player with the most points. Banana Split Relay Race You will need all the ingredients for banana splits: Bananas Ice Cream - chocolate, vanilla, and strawberry Fudge Sauce Strawberry Sauce Caramel Sauce Nuts or Sprinkles Whipped Cream Put all the ingredients into large bowls on a table. Divide your group into teams of up to nine people. Give each team a large, empty bowl. When someone says, "Go!" the first person on the team peels and cuts the banana and puts it in the bowl. The banana split first wins the game. Finishing the banana split becomes a challenge as everyone is trying to use the bowls of ingredients at the same time. Players have the fun of eating their creation when they finish. Eating Games are fun to participate in and watch. Plan ahead for the best time to introduce eating games, since they do create a mess, this fun game provides lots of laughs! You will need an aluminum pie plate for each player. Put five to seven M&Ms on each plate. Players kneel before their plates and on the count of three attempt to eat all their M&Ms first. The player who does so is the winner. Spaghetti Challenge Ask for volunteers for this game to make sure players participate with enthusiasm. Have three or four players sit at a table facing the spectators. Give each person a large bowl of spaghetti. Players must eat the spaghetti without silverware and with their backs. The first person to eat all their spaghetti is the winner. Donuts on a String Simple and fun, the only equipment required is string and donuts. Hang the donuts from the ceiling and have the players eat the donut without using their hands. They must keep their arms behind their backs. The donuts swinging side to side make this task extremely difficult. The first to eat the entire donut wins this fun and challenging game. Food Games for Kids If you are looking for ideas for a kids' party, why not play some fun food games. Kids love to eat and get messy, and some of our games provide both. Others simply require skill and coordination. Whichever game you choose, it will make your party, camp experience, or get-together memorable. Mystery Taste Test You will need a variety of different foods to play this game. Players take turns wearing a blindfold and tasting a food to guess what it is. Switch out the food each time a new player takes a turn. Allow each player to take three (or more) turns and give one point for each correct quess. The player with the most points wins. You may need to have a play-off if players tie. Try some of the following foods for this game: peanut butter instant coffee cheese milk sugar salt and pepper garlic or onion powder olive oil vinegar raisins bread or cracker crumbs herbs and spices flour cornstarch applesauce pudding jam or jelly diced fruit or vegetables Variation: Allow the players to touch and smell the food to before making a guess. Note: Make sure you know about any food allergies the kids may have before playing. Pasta Relay Race Divide your players into two or more teams of six or more players. Have the teams line up behind two large, empty pots at one side of the room. On the other side of the room, have two large pots filled with pasta, filing the ladle, racing back to the empty pot, dumping the pasta, and running back to their team. The first team able to transfer all their pasta wins the race. Variations: To make the game more difficult for older children, use cooked pasta, slippery and more difficult for older children, use cooked pasta, slippery and more difficult for older children, use cooked pasta, slippery and more difficult for older children, use cooked pasta, slippery and more difficult for older children, use cooked pasta, slippery and more difficult for older children, use cooked pasta from player to player to fill the empty pot from the full one in relay race style. Chopstick Challenges Pass the Food. Provide each player a pair of chopsticks, a small bowl filled with small food pieces, such as raisins, cereal, mini marshmallows, or M&Ms, and an empty bowl. Set a timer for two to five minutes, depending upon the size of your group and their ages.
The kids attempt to transfer the food from the filled bowl to the empty bowl. The kid who has the most pieces in their bowl when the timer goes off is the winner. Chopsticks, such as cooked spagnetti, pudding, or slippery fruit, such as peach slices. The goal is to see who can eat their small bowl of food the quickest. Chopstick Pass. Each kid receives a pair of chopsticks after joining a circle either sitting on the floor or standing. One kid is give a small item, such as a nut or small, gummy candy. One child begins the game, passing the object to the next child with their chopsticks. Any child who drops the item is out. The last person left is the winner. Note: Some players may be able to use chopsticks already. Try having all the players use their non-dominant hand (right handers use left hand, and left handers use right hand) to make the competition even. Food-themed "Musical" Chairs Have the players form a circle with one chair removed. Choose four or more kinds of food (fruits or vegetables) and go around the circle with each player having the name of a food, for example beets, potatoes, corn, and squash. When the person in the center calls out the name of a food, all the players designated with that name must change seats. Each time a chair is removed and the last person remaining wins this game. Recipe Mix Up Divide the kids into teams and give each team the same recipe with all the ingredients and directions on separate slips of paper. The goal is to arrange all the ingredients and directions in the correct order. You can provide a blank sheet of paper and either tape or glue to make the process easier. For older kids or to make the game more difficult, cut the words apart and ask the teams to arrange them in the correct order. If you wish, you can provide the ingredients and let the teams make the recipe. Cookies or cupcakes work well at a kid's party. Food Games for Adults and Couples and adults.
Divide your group into teams of six or more players. Each team lines up and each team member receives a toothpick which they are holding in their mouth. They pass the cereal piece to the next person, who also has a toothpick in their mouth. If the cereal falls, the team must start over with the first person. The first person. The first team who manages to pass the cereal piece down the entire line wins this game. Licorice Challenge Pair up your players or have couples form two-person teams. Give each team a very long strand of licorice. Each pair of players places one end of the licorice string in their mouths. At the "Go!" signal, the couples eat the licorice until they meet in the middle. The couple who reaches the middle first wins this fun game. Variation: No licorice? Use slightly (still firm) cooked spaghetti noodles. Whistling and Burping This game for couples or paired adults guarantees laughs! Couples receive a can of soda and five soda crackers. One person on each paired team will eat the crackers and the other person will drink the soda. The person in each pair who will be eating the crackers and then must whistle "Yankee Doodle Dandy" or another pre-selected song. Then the soda drinker must chug the soda and burp loud enough to be heard. The first two-person team to complete this challenge first, wins. Variation: Have three or four couples play this food game in front of the rest of the group. Filled Doughnut Feeding Pairs of players sit across a table opposite each other, but within arms' reach. Place a plate with three filled doughnuts in front of one of the players.
Blindfold both players. The goal is to feed one's partner the filled doughnuts in the shortest amount of time. If you wish, you can set a timer for three minutes, and the nave them stand behind their seated partner and feed them the filled donut.
Wheelbarrow Race Pairs of players, one the "wheelbarrow" and one who pushes it, race to the finish line in this unusual fun race. One player balances on their hands while the other player holds their legs. The goal is to finish the game first. Food enters this game as on the way to the finish line, there are piles of food one must eat. Prior to playing, small foods - candies, nuts, chopped fruit, etc. - are placed on clean papers along the course with their items in the cup as they race to the finish line. The pair of players completing the course with their items in the cup wins this race. Quick Food Game Ideas Food Piñata. Make or purchase of a food-themed piñata and fill it with goodies - candies and small toys - for your party or get-together. Scavenger Hunts Hide cooking ingredients and utensils necessary to complete a recipe and have players find them in the order in which the recipe lists them. Hide cooking cutters for players to find and then let them cut sugar cookies and decorate them after they bake. Peas and Straws Game Players must transfer peas from a plate using drinking straws. Whether your group consists of kids, teens, single adults, or couples, we have a fun food game for every occasion. Make sure you check for any food allergies before playing and be prepared for cleaning up the play area and those participating. Have fun! Susan majored in English with a double minor in Humanities and Business at Arizona State University and earned a Master's degree in Educational Administration from Liberty University. She taught grades four through twelve in both public and private schools. Subjects included English, U.S. and world history and geography, math, earth and physical science, Bible, information technologies, and creative writing. Susan has been freelance writing for over ten years, during which time she has written and edited books, newspaper articles, biographies, book reviews, guidelines, neighborhood descriptions for realtors, Power Point presentations, resumes, and numerous other projects. Read full bio It is the season for picnic games so all you need to do is bring the food. Whether you are having a family picnic or organizing a company picnic for the upcoming summer, it is important to have activities as well as food. Games not only keep people from getting bored, but it also is a great way to bring people together. After all, who doesn't enjoy playing games. There are so many games to choose from for couples, seniors, and all picnic events, and we have the best ones for you right here. We have put together this list of the best picnic team games for adults, so you can organize the best picnic ever. Be it family, friends, or coworkers, picnics are a wonderful way to spend an afternoon. We have group games, company picnic games, games for couples, and games for seniors. With these fun games for everyone, you can be sure that there will be fun all around. Most people think they need to keep the kids busy and out of trouble at gatherings, but this can apply to adults too. The last thing you want at a picnic is for the adults too be bored. With these fun games, everyone can take part and have a great time. Divide the group into teams and give each group a hula hoop. The game is the same as regular charades, but as the person acts out the clues, they have to be hula hooping. If the hula hoop on one arm as they act out the clues instead. With all the guests in teams, give each team five plastic cups. You will also need to have a few bags of marshmallows on hand as well as a scavenger hunt list. Each team has a starting point with a table or chair. The cups need to be set here as the teams carry out the scavenger hunt. Once the hunt is completed, the team members then have to get one marshmallow into each of their cups, using only their mouth. The first team to complete the hunt and the marshmallow launch wins. Split the group into even teams and give each player a plastic cup and a large bucket for each team. Each team needs a captain that will be stationed at the bucket. Every other player gets a cup filled halfway with water and a blindfold. The goal of this game is for the team to get to their captains without spilling any water, then dump it into their team bucket with the most water wins. Each player needs a blown-up balloon. One person gets to be the trivia master and needs to have a set of trivia cards. Split the other players into even teams. Each team gets one minute to answer trivia questions, but they need to keep their balloons in the air while they do this. The team to get the most correct answers wins. If anyone balloon is dropped, the team loses the rest of their time to answer questions. Have everyone stand in a circle, shoulder to shoulder. Have everyone put their right hand out and randomly grab the hand of someone across the circle from them. Then, do the same with the left hand, grabbing a different random hand. Set a time limit and the group has to untangle themselves without releasing their hands. You can do this as a large group or in smaller groups for a competition. Some of the games are easy to set up and fun to play. They are a perfect addition to any group picnic. This is a great game to play in smaller teams. Because it does not take long, you can have it set up for people to play through the day as they want. An affordable bag toss set can be purchased at Amazon and will be a fun addition for any picnic. You can always change things up by organizing specific teams, such as girls vs boys, or throwing the bean bag backwards. Sale Himal Collapsible Portable Corn Hole Boards With 8 Cornhole Bean Bags [INNOVATION DESIGN] Exclusive innovative design, this Bean Bag Game can be assembled very quickly by flicking and stocking with a small footprint and meeting every needs in the portable travel[LIGHT WEIGHT AND PORTABLE] With a weight of 2 kg and a length of 11inch*11inch*4inch after folding, this Corn Hole Boards are more lightweight and portable than other Cornhole Game in the market. A handy and funny Bean Bag Toss Game in indoor, outdoor and travelling activities[STRONG AND DURABLE] Made by the high elastic flat wire, which can be folded for more than 1000 times. Fabrics with anti-skid treatment handle the issue of bags skid on surface effectively. By 300D poly fabric makes it durable [MOST COST-EFFECTIVE] Two 3' x 2' Cornhole Boards (Non-match size), 8 Cor Affiliate links / Images from Amazon Product Advertising API Everybody loves hide and seek. It brings out the kid in all adults. The more that play, the merrier. Make sure you designate a spot for home base for people to return to safely. If you want to make the game a little more challenging, mark off the area for play to limit where people can hide.
Who doesn't love tag? Choose a person to be it and let everyone run freez you by tagging you. You can make the game more challenging by limiting the space for play. You can also make it so that you have to crawl through a person's legs to unfreeze them. All you need are two sponges, two buckets of water, and two jars. Divide the group into two teams evenly. Draw a line on each jar to mark how full it needs to be to win. The team players soak their sponge with water, run to the jar (opposite end of the play area) and squeeze water into the jar. They return and hand the sponge to their next player. The first team to fill the jar past the marker wins. Divide your group into two teams need to line up holding hands facing each other. Have the team line standing far enough apart to allow for running in between. The first team calls out "Red Rover, Send Someone Over" using the name of a player on the opposing team. That person needs to run across and try to break through the hands. If they make it through, they get to go back to their line, taking a person with them. If not, they have to stay and join that line. This continues until one line is gone. There are two reasons to know about games that are great for couples. First, having some fun games to play on a couple's picnic is always a great for couples to have fun and laugh together. It also helps to have games at group picnics that couples to play when they have their own picnic getaway and the last one is great for couples to team up for. This can also be played in a group, but is fun as couples too. Bring a ball with you on your picnic to play this. It is simple. Just toss the ball back and forth to each other for a minute while hopping on one foot. Then try and do it jogging in place or spinning in a circle. This is a great game for couples that are getting to know each other. You get to ask each other a series of random questions about what they prefer. Vanilla or chocolate? Books or movies? Dogs or cats? Beer or Wine? Go through as many topics as you want to discover if you and your partner have anything in common or if opposites attract. For new or established couples, charades is a ton of fun. Taking turns come up with a movie, book, phrase, or television show to act out. Set a timer to see if they can guess what you are acting in time. Who says you have to be running around to have fun? Some of the best things to do as a couple are playing board games. They can easily tag along with you on a picnic and there are so many to choose from. Grab your favorities or a bundle from Amazon and find a way to fit them in your picnic basket. Last update on 2025-05-27 / Affiliate links / Images from Amazon Product Advertising API Another classic picnic game is the water balloon. They need to stand facing each other, about one foot away. They toss the water balloon back and forth and each time it is caught, a step back is taken. The winning team will be the team that is furthest apart when their balloon bursts. Chances are your picnic will have some older adults, or you could be planning an event that is for seniors only. These games are perfect for older players and can be enjoyed by everyone at the picnic. Depending on where you have the picnic, there may be a designated place for horseshoes are a classic game for all ages but are especially popular among older adults. Teams consist of two players, each taking turns to toss the horseshoes around the stakes. Points are awarded to the horseshoe closest to the stake. Croquet is a great game for seniors, or anyone really. It takes a great deal of patience and focus but is also a lot of fun. Grab an affordable croquet set from Amazon to enjoy at your next group picnic. Juegoal Six Player Croquet Set with Wooden Mallets Colored Balls Includes 6 x 28" Burlywood handles, 6 x 8" hardwood handles, 6 x 8" hardwood handle and hardwood handle and hardwood handle are easy to install, simply screw the handle into the mallet, takes few seconds. Easy to carry, with a extra drawing bag, all mallets and balls can be easily stored without disassembly. This thoughtful bag let you storage and transport croquet set conveniently. Sturdy and long lasting design, suitable for 2-6 players, enjoyed by people of all ages and ability levels. Leisure sport for your parents, friends. Perfect for family gathering, picnics, parties and more. Manufacturer recommended age: 6 years and up Last update on 2025-05-27 / Affiliate links / Images from Amazon Product Advertising API Sometimes a deck of cards is the easiest way to entertain people. Make sure you have a place to play and if not bring along a card table. The great thing about cards is that there are so many different games you can play. Some of the most popular ones to play at a picnic are Bridge, Rummy, and Cribbage. Bocce ball is popular among seniors and is a fun and competitive way to enjoy a picnic. You can beat the competition by rolling more of your balls closer to the target than them. The game is simple, and you will likely find that others of any age will want to play too. Chess is a final game that seniors love. It can be set up at any table or on a blanket, or a folding table. Grab an affordable chess set from Amazon to have at any of your gatherings, events or pickups. You may even want to grab two sets, in case there are multiple people that want to play. You can even have a competition to see who the best is. Company picnics are common in the summer so chances are you will be going to one and maybe organizing one. The key ingredients for a great company picnic are good food and fun games. While any of the games already discussed can also be played at the company event, there are a few more you can consider too. Three-legged races are great for team building and for providing laughs. This traditional picnic game is great for all ages. All you need is a rope to tie the legs of two runners together. Have the group divide up into teams of two. You can also try fun variations of this rage such as blindfolded or walking backwards. Grab a set of flags from Amazon, a football, and divide the group into even teams such as a boys vs girls or divide people up randomly Another great game for company picnics is Disc Golf. You can grab a set of discs on Amazon along with a portable disc golf basket for the picnic. Teams play against each other in a similar fashion to golf, but with discs. The goal is to get as close to a target as possible. You can decide whether to play rounds of 9 or 18 "holes" and set up a competition where the winner plays whoever is next. See who the disc golf champion of your picnic will be. Just as the three-legged race is a classic game that everyone loves, so is the potato sack race. The game makes adults feel like kids again and is fun for company picnics. Challenge everyone to race against each other or set up teams to sack race in relay. If you don't have any sacks laying around, grab some from Amazon. LA Linen Burlap Potato Sack Race Bags 23 x 40 (Pack of 6) Size is approximately and may vary from 23x 40. Sacks have a distinct scent and would dissipate over time when the sacks are aired OutThe scent is from the Natural fibers, an air Purifier and germ killer. A reason this sack is used in storage of food and produceWe recommend rolling your Potato sacks to prevent creases and storing them in a dry cool placeOrder includes 6 burlap sack Last update on 2025-05-27 / Affiliate links / Images from Amazon and divide your group into two teams. You can randomly assign people a number one or two and then they can assemble teams. Or you can do tallest vs shortest and boys vs girls. There are several ways to change up tug of war, but it is the ultimate competition game for company picnics. If you really want to make it fun, put a kiddie pool with water in the center and see who ends up in their first. The list of 25 picnic games should be more than enough to entertain your guests. Before you decide which of the games to play at your next event, there are a few helpful tips to consider when picking games Guest Age: Most of the games above are for all ages, but if you have younger or older guests, be sure to include games that include them. Space: Some of the games we recommend require running space, so match your game choice to the room you will have to play. Equipment: Not all the games require equipment, but if you need any, make sure you get enough for all the people that are expected to be there. It is always better to have too many than not enough. Summer is here and picnic season is upon us all. Picnic fun goes beyond the blankets and the food. You need to have games too. The good news is that there are so many games you can play, and we have the best picnic team games for adults right here. Browse the list, pick your favorites, and enjoy the fun that will be the hit of your next picnic.
```